INTERVIEWER: What do you remember about [INAUDIBLE]?

02.00.58 BREAH SCHURKE: Um I remembering bringing the jump rope. Just wanted to be the first person to bring a jump rope to, am I being filmed right now? All right um I remember bringing one of the play jump ropes to the (Nordit?) Pole. I wanted to be the first person to bring a jump rope to the North Pole and, and bringing it to the Igloo and trying to jump or whatever. Little kid I guess. And I left it there. So it's still there unless it's probably in the bottom of the ocean now.

02.01.32 And I re-, remember seeing my dad for the first time in two months I guess. And so I was, I guess I don't know. I missed him a lot so it was nice to see him again and I got to show him my brand new glasses. Embarrassing I guess. Dork of the ocean or polar oce-, I don't know. And um I guess I was excited to show him glasses and all of that.

02.02.01 And I wasn't, it wasn't a big deal I guess from a, going to the North Pole when I was that age. Um I don't know why. I guess I didn't really think much of it until after I think and then oh my gosh I actually went to the North Pole. [NOISE IN BKGD] And I remember the big ice blocks but and I thought of it as just, it was going to be this flat ocean with ice and, and it was a lot different. I saw all these big chunks of pressure ridges and stuff and that was different so. I remember climbing the pressure ridges and just, that was fun. A little playground I guess. And you know seeing all the dogs and.

INTERVIEWER: What were some of the things you expected to see when you got up there?

02.02.50 BREAH SCHURKE: [TALKS OVER] Um see I don't remember about Santa Claus much. I mean many people might expect you know oh you're going to the North Pole so you're going to see Santa Claus but when I was that age I probably would have thought that. I don't think so.

INTERVIEWER: Was he there?

02.03.06 BREA SCHURKE: No. We were you know. [LAUGHS] Um I guess I just expected a flat, it was just gonna be flat and ice and white and nothing there but when we got there um I remember seeing ice and different colors of blue and the white and um the big pressure ridges. I remember that a lot and thinking that was really weird and really different. There's these big blocks of ice and how'd they get there? And that was kind of neat.

INTERVIEWER: Okay, we're done.
